Christmas Echoes. Oh, sweet bolls, chiming everywhere,
Waking the keen, bline, frosty skies;
Oh, glad day, beaming crystal fair,
Crowning the year that dles!
O'er bird forgotten vale and glen
Your happy soing sounds once again,
Breathing of "Peace, good will to menGood-will to men."

Echoed along the hurrying years,
The self-same words that angels hymned
Fall softly on our listening ears!
And Bethlehem's star, undimned,
Gleams o'er the lone and gloomy waste,
And guides the feet of those who haste
Where, lowly, like a star displaced,
The Babe is seen. Echoes the ring of generous mirth

Where loving ones meet round the board.

And sparkling eyes make glad the earth.

And hearts beat is accord.

Heap high the rousing, erackling fire.

That cleaves the gloom—a golden spire;

We'll laugh to scorn the north wind's ire,

At Christmas time. Echoes; ah, may we heed it still!— The cry of homeless, weary ones. Who beg the streets, while plucking chill. The white storm whirle and monne. When the grant wolf, where, creation is Think of the lives so sac and deser;

Oh, to the endless ery give car— "For Christ's dear sake Echoes of those who dream alone. Echnes of those who dream alone, of Christmas-days long, long ago.
When love and beauty round them shone
Amid the pearly snow.
Ob, still in dreams of dear delight.
Though summer days have taken flight.
And dark foreboding fill the night—
May joy be theirs!

Echoes from yonder sweeping seas,
Where the swift petrel hears the cry
Of wrecked men in their agonies,
And storm-wrack blots the eky!
God's pity for the ills that be!
Save those who brave for us the sea!
So may we utter prayerfully
This blessed day!

Oh. spirit of this kindly time!
Oh. gentle hearts wholf andly meet!
Oh. bells with ever-wakening chime.
Bring us your messages sweet!
O'er bird-forgotten vale and glen.
Ring out your happy song again.
